1. About our Institute

Saroj Gupta Cancer Centre & Research Institute at Thakurpukur was conceived in 1973. The main aim was to serve the under-privileged cancer patients under the leadership of the pioneer Oncologist Late Dr Saroj Gupta. This Institute has become an internationally famous 311 bedded fully comprehensive modern Cancer Institute recognized by WHO & UICC. This is a non-profit making philanthropic organization where 50% of the treatment facilities are reserved for the economically weaker section of the society. This Institute is perpetually recognized as a Scientific and Industrial Research Organization (SIRO) by the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research (DSIR) of India. The centre has always stressed on the training of Medical and para-medical staff in the field of Oncology, and is one of the 1st few centres to start DNB in Radiotherapy and Surgical Oncology under National Board of Examination, New Delhi more than one decades back.. This institute has also recognition with The West Bengal University of Health Science and Calcutta University for PhD programmes. Different Para-Medical courses like DMLT, DRD, DRT and DOTT are also run here regularly recognized by the State Medical Faculty of West Bengal. Our Medical Physics unit is recognized by BARC & AERB (Atomic Energy Regulation Board) for one year internship programme for newly qualified medical physicists. Our trainees spend maximum numbers of hours for training and teaching activities such as case presentation in weekly CMEs and discussions, in-house seminars/ conferences, ward rounds, interesting case discussions etc.
